Universities

Opening Doors to University
The Australian Government has launched a new site to help young people find the support and resources they need to overcome barriers to university study. It allows potential students and families to search for information about different types of Government assistance they can apply for.

TAFE & Apprenticeships

Australian Apprenticeships and Traineeships Information Service Pre-
Apprenticeship Course Finder
The ‘PCF’ now has a default home screen to search courses by state and territory. This allows students to quickly identify what State or Territory has ‘active’ courses available, which are then categorized by broad industry groups. Once an industry group is selected, students can then narrow the search by selecting your ‘Region’ to find active local courses.

Building Your Career

A lifelong journey

Your career is something much larger than a job or an occupation. Your career is the variety of experiences of learning and work (both unpaid and paid) that you undertake throughout your lifetime.

| Career: the sum total of paid and unpaid work, learning and life roles you undertake throughout your life. |
| Occupation: a group of similar jobs found in different industries or organisations. |
| Job: a position in which you perform tasks for payment. |

Our careers are influenced by many things, such as our interests, our age, our education, our families and our cultural values — most of which change over time. In the 21st century, very few people will have the same job or occupation for life. You can expect to make several changes throughout your career.

It's up to you to actively manage the process of building your career, rather than just letting it happen. You will need to plan and manage your lifelong career journey. You are the person best suited to make choices on the basis of your own skills, knowledge and interests. But as you get started, remember that there are people who can help and support you along the way, and that you can provide help and support to others as well.

New Doctor of Medicine program to boost global profile

UQ will introduce a new Doctor of Medicine (MD) program in 2015, enhancing global opportunities for its postgraduate medical students.

The four-year postgraduate-entry MD degree will replace the current four-year Bachelor of Medicine/Bachelor of Surgery (MBBS) program.

“The change to an MD will ensure the UQ medical program remains aligned with medical programs from other comparable research-intensive universities in Australia,” he said. “It will also provide a more easily recognisable qualification for our medical graduates”.

The MD program requires a minimum of a three-year bachelor degree for entry, with provisional and graduate entry to be offered to domestic and international students.
Bachelor of Arts - new web information for prospective students

It’s now even easier to find about the many and varied study options available to students interested in the Bachelor of Arts thanks to the new Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences website. Students can browse over 40 different study areas to discover more about their study interests and where they can lead them.

UQ’s Bachelor of Arts has one of the most comprehensive course offerings in Australia and its flexibility allows students to tailor a program that fits not only their career aspirations, but also fulfils their passion.
