3. Griffith University
Bachelor of Sport Development

BACHELOR OF SPORT DEVELOPMENT
NEW IN 2015

What is “Sport Development”?
It’s about attracting, retaining and nurturing sports participants in the community. This is achieved through planning and developing targeted programs that are delivered and managed in a variety of sport settings.

Why should you study Sport Development at Griffith University?
- It’s Australia’s most comprehensive degree with a unique blend of studies from physiology, biomechanics, sport psychology, sociology, education, health promotion, sports management, sport policy, fitness and sports coaching. This diverse range of content will equip you with extensive knowledge and skills for a variety of positions in this growing profession.
- Specific core and elective courses in this degree provide students with additional external qualifications. Students can gain Certificates III and IV in Fitness (TAE), and Level One Sports Trainer Certificate (Sports Medicine Australia). This provides opportunities for students to earn money from relevant part-time work while studying.
- Griffith is one of Australia’s foremost universities in the delivery of sport courses, and will partner or provide services for a number of national sporting teams preparing for the Commonwealth Games. Through its Sports College, Griffith has supported over 100 student athletes across some 40 sports, including many Olympians, to achieve academic success alongside the demands of training.

What areas does Sport Development cover?
Sport Development is a distinctive blend of studies in four main streams: sport and exercise science, sport coaching, health promotion, and sport management and marketing.

What are my career opportunities as a sport development professional?
This comprehensive degree will equip you with the skills to work in a variety of areas such as exercise, sport, recreation, health promotion, sport coaching and sport management. Roles include:
- sports centre coordinator
- physical activity programs coordinator
- sports coach working with children to elite athletes
- sports team or club administrator
- community development roles including health promotion
- sponsorship manager
- sports media liaison
- professional association official
- facilities manager
- event coordinator/manager

Who do they work for?
(a few examples only)
- community sport and recreation programs funded by various levels of government, or private sponsors (eg: Paramount)
- amateur and professional sporting organisations
- sport and recreation centres and resorts
- national and state sporting organisations
- private sport marketing and media consultancies

What are the graduate employment prospects like?
Extremely high. It’s a national priority by government at all levels to increase participation in sport and recreational activities, to address our rising obesity rates and future healthcare costs.

And with the staging of the Gold Coast Commonwealth Games in 2018, there’ll be many local and diverse opportunities to start a career in sport development.

How can I find out more about Sport Development?
The Bachelor of Sport Development is a 3-year full-time degree, delivered at Gold Coast campus.

Contact the program director, Dr Brooke Harrison at b.harrison@griffith.edu.au

JMC Academy - THROGA Workshops for Aspiring and Professional Singers

Exclusive workshops with celebrity vocal coach
Celebrity vocal coach, Richard Fink IV, will be visiting from New York to teach his world-renowned vocal development techniques. THROGA (Throat-Yoga), a technique he created that is now being practiced world-wide, addresses specific muscles related to singing to gain flexibility, strength and balance throughout the vocal range.

Richard has a stunningly impressive resume, having worked with thousands of clients over the past 20 years, including multi-platinum selling artists, Broadway stars and singers featured on Disney, Nickelodeon, The X Factor (USA and AUS), American Idol, The Voice (USA and AUS), America’s Got Talent, Australia’s Got Talent, MTV, CMT, The Ellen DeGeneres Show, Late Night with Conan O’Brien, The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, and Live with Kelly & Michael.

Richard will be running music performance and THROGA seminars at JMC Academy in Sydney, Brisbane and Melbourne, teaching THROGA techniques to aspiring and professional singers. Interested in coming along? BOOK YOUR WORKSHOP HERE.

JMC Academy graduate takes on The X Factor
Jaymie Deboucherville recently studied Audio Engineering & Sound Production at JMC Academy in Melbourne. After graduating he decided to follow his passion for music performance, with an audition on The X Factor!

From the moment Jaymie walked out on the stage, he captivated the entire audience, receiving a standing ovation from all four judges, as well as the 5,000 strong audience, with his performance of the Oasis Hit ‘Wonderwall’. Judge Natalie Basingthwaite could barely contain her excitement when it was her turn to critique his performance. “Jaymie last year we had such amazing singers. I have to say I was nervous about this year. How are we going to top that? We’ve now got you!”

He continued to impress the judges making it through the first round of boot camp and reaching the Top 24. Congratulations Jaymie! Watch his performance here.

11. Aviation Presentation at GSLC

UQUniversity

Aviation Presentation at GSLC – 3.15pm in Theatrette

Former US Special Operations Aviator and now CQUniversity’s Aviation Head of Program, Ron Bishop, will be visiting Good Shepherd Lutheran College on Tuesday, 14th October at 3:15pm (Term 4, week 2), in the THEATRETTE to discuss with students, parents and faculty the ins and outs of tertiary education, the suite of aviation programs available at CQUniversity and sharing insights into a career in the aviation industry.

Previous students have loved this experience and the chance to dress up in Air Force suits and helmets. Ron’s use of flight simulators has also been a huge hit, bringing this study area to life.

Hear about Ron’s extraordinary personal experiences (like meeting the US President), information on career opportunities and learn about CQUniversity’s suite of Aviation degrees available to start studying at school now via the SUN (Start Uni Now) program available both on campus and via distance education.

Ron will also be joined by current CQUniversity Aviation students, so you will hear about the experiences of studying our Aviation programs first hand.

For further information on CQUniversity, please visit www.cqu.edu.au

Please register your intentions to attend this event no later than Thursday 9 October by emailing the Career Guidance Counsellor, Mr Handreck, handreckg@gslc.qld.edu.au

Students from Years 6 to 12 are welcome to attend
