Class of 2010 steps into world

Most first walked into Good Shepherd Lutheran College as nervous young kids but last week the Year 12 class of 2010 stepped out into the world exhilarated to be taking on their next challenge in life.

And they did it in style last Wednesday.

The walk of honour has become a tradition at Good Shepherd Lutheran College and a rite of passage for our Year 12 students.

“The main pathways of the college are flanked with students from prep to Year 11,” a school spokeswoman said.

“All gathered to applaud and recognise the graduating class of each year. “The senior year walk along the pathway from the back of the college right through to the chapel, soaking up the atmosphere and admiration of their peers.

“It is a very emotional time for many students and something that past walkers describe as one of the most moving and proud moments of their final days of school life.”

The walk of honour began at 10am, with students sent off in house groups, and concluded with a final closing chapel for the Year 12 students, where they were given blessings for the future.
