The path to university made simple

1. What do I want to be?

   Using Job Guide, you can explore all the exciting career possibilities and the educational prerequisites you will need to meet in order to undertake your chosen career path. Match your personal skills and interests with over 530 different job descriptions. The Guide will also help you determine whether you will need to pursue vocational or higher education.

   You can also access all Job Guide content online via www.GoodUniversitiesGuide.com.au.

2. How do I achieve my career goal?

   If vocational study (such as TAFE) is the right fit for you, explore all your study options at www.GoodUniversitiesGuide.com.au.

   If university is where you’re headed, find out which courses are of interest and research them in detail using The Good Universities Guide. Containing every undergraduate university course and provider, as well as a wide selection of courses from private higher education providers, the Guide will help you compare your options based on objective ratings derived from the feedback of thousands of recent graduates.

3. Let’s get started!

   Now that you know what and where you want to study, you are ready to submit your university application through your state’s Tertiary Admissions Centre (TAC) or, in the case of Tasmania, directly to the institution.

3. Griffith University News
New degrees at Griffith University

New in 2017!

In 2017, Griffith University is introducing a range of new and updated degrees designed to prepare students for the future world of work. These new degrees include the:

- Bachelor of Counselling, designed to meet growing employer demand for specialist counselling skills, and developed with input from agencies working on the frontline. The degree includes 350 hours of face-to-face training, so graduates will be well-prepared for work.
- Bachelor of Education, an innovative degree that allows students to study fundamental teaching principles in first year before choosing to specialise in primary or secondary education from second year onwards. The degree is an equivalent 4-year full-time program that can be completed in 3.5 years.
- Bachelor of Design, which equips students with the creative and technical skills to tackle real design challenges, and also develops their critical and strategic thinking to design for a sustainable future. The new degree offers majors in graphic, interior, product and 3D, and visualisation design.
- Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of Asian Studies, a new double degree combination that prepares students for careers in professional legal practice and opportunities in foreign affairs, foreign trade, business consultancy, defence and security agencies.
- Bachelor of Criminology and Criminal Justice / Bachelor of IT, preparing graduates with a pathway into an ever-increasing range of opportunities in the fields of crime prevention, intelligence data collection and analysis, cyber and network security, amongst others.

Discover an amazing career

Discover an amazing career, industry and course site for female students

The Footnotes is a brilliant site providing course information in a magazine format. By design the site is female oriented and will make career exploration for young women an interesting and rewarding experience.

The Footnotes brings together recommendations, inspiring stories and articles that will help shape your decisions for after school. From which industry you’ll like, to which exact course or university that will get you there, or even which travel destination is best; we have done all of the research for you. 5 Things you need to consider when picking a degree

How do you choose the right university, or the right degree? What should you focus on? How do you weigh up all the different elements involved? Do you want to stay local, or move far away? Do you want a degree that gets you job ready, or do you need flexibility?

Scarily, students and their families often choose to focus overwhelmingly on only some of the crucial aspects of choosing the right university and course post school, and it means that they often miss the other equally important issues. Click to read

Follow your passion - is this sound career advice?

The follow your passion career advice seems exciting: Who doesn’t want to spend their working hours doing something they love? But in reality, this advice is, at best, fluff, and at worst, misleading.

It’s misleading because, let’s be honest: how many of us actually know what our passion is? And of those who do, how many can align that passion with jobs that actually exist in the workplace? For example, it’s one thing to be passionate about music and an entirely different thing to find meaningful work in that industry.

The transition from school to work is already difficult. For the first time in your life, you’re leaving the safety and comfort of the school system to enter the adult working world. The follow your passion advice, and the implied expectation, is that you should immediately walk into an exciting and fulfilling job.

Instead, entry-level work is often tedious and tough, a time when you are supposed to be learning the ropes and building skills for a lifelong career. The older workers, meanwhile, are annoyed at your unrealistic expectations. Click to read (Resource: ‘My Career Match’)
6. Alternative Schoolies

Make your Year 12 celebration something worth remembering!

Make your Year 12 celebration something worth remembering!

For those who want to mark the end of their very long school education with something different, with something more than just a week-long party, picture this: you travel to a developing country and immerse yourself in the culture, you make a positive impact to your world (which is your oyster!) and you do this alongside volunteers from all over the globe. Sound pretty great? Welcome to your Alternative Schoolies – quite literally a world away from your typical schoolies week!

You can go by yourself or with a bunch of your friends on a one, two or three week volunteering journey to Cambodia or Samoa to work with disadvantaged children, renovate community centres and participate in environmental and nutritional education projects.

The Alternative Schoolie programmes offer flexible start dates in a three week period over November and December. The projects are structured to give you a variety of hands on, worthwhile and rewarding work - as well as the chance to take a little time out to relax and take in the sights of a wonderful country we hope you will come to regard as a second home.

Get your imagination going and think outside the box for your schoolies; after all, you only get to do it once – so make your schoolies something worth remembering!

7. Certificate III in Business

CERTIFICATE III GUARANTEE
A QUEENSLAND GOVERNMENT INITIATIVE
Interested in Completing Your Certificate III in Business
Are you Eligible for enrolment in a government funded Certificate III in Business Course?

ATTENTION All Queensland Eligible Students

Enroll in a Nationally Recognised Qualification funded by the Queensland Government Certificate III in Business from just $70 Under the Certificate 3 Guarantee Program.

What is Certificate 3 Guarantee?

The Certificate 3 Guarantee provides a government subsidy to support eligible individuals to complete their first post-school certificate III qualification.

Are you Eligible?

This program is open to individuals who are:

- Queensland residents aged 15 years or over
- No longer at school (with the exception of VET in Schools students)
- Australian or New Zealand citizens or Australian permanent residents (including humanitarian entrants), or a temporary resident with the necessary visa and on the pathway to permanent residency
- Not holding, and not enrolled in, a certificate III level or higher qualification (not including qualifications completed at school and foundation skills training)

Contact the Team at Ballistic Training Solutions today to discuss your eligibility or further details on the Qld Government Certificate 3 Guarantee Program.

What level of subsidy is available?

The investment priority or importance of the training determines the size of the government subsidy. Training in vocational areas that align with important economic and industry skills needs will receive a higher government subsidy.

Do I need to contribute to the cost of training?

Given the benefits that training provide to individuals, students undertaking certificate III level training and no concessional students undertaking lower-level vocational training are required to contribute to the cost of their Training through a co-contribution fee. The amount of your out-of-pocket expense will vary depending on the course you undertake and the training provider you choose. The fee may be paid on your behalf by an employer or another third party, but cannot be paid by the training provider.
