2. TAFE, VET & Apprenticeships

Australian Apprentice Wage Subsidy – Regional and Rural
New apprentices in rural and regional workplaces could be eligible for a wage subsidy if their apprenticeship is listed on the National Skills Shortage List. As an apprentice you won’t receive the money directly, but it will make it easier for employers to hire you.
You can find out more about your eligibility here, and make sure you mention the subsidy when you apply for apprenticeships if you are eligible. There are lots of trades on the National Skills Needs List – find them all here.

TAFE Queensland – Free TAFE for Year 12 Graduates
To support Year 12 graduates into work, the Queensland Government offers free TAFE in high priority areas. If you are getting ready to graduate Year 12 in 2018 or finished school in 2017, you can kick start your career by getting the skills employers want without the fees. https://tafeqld.edu.au/information-for/school-students/year-12-fee-free.html

TAFE Queensland – Apprenticeships & Trainees
Learn hands on with the same equipment and tools used in industry, combining working for an employer and studying at TAFE Queensland, and graduate with a nationally-recognised qualification. Pre-apprenticeships and post-trade training also available. https://tafeqld.edu.au/information-for/apprentices-and-trainees/index.html

Queensland Certificate III Guarantee
The Certificate 3 Guarantee supports eligible individuals to complete their first post-school Certificate III qualification and increase their skills to move into employment, re-enter the workforce or advance their career. It also supports school students to access training and Queensland's Year 12 graduates to transition to employment by providing free training in high priority qualifications. As you can only access the Certificate 3 Guarantee subsidy once, it is important you choose the right course for you to take full advantage of this opportunity. The Queensland Skills Gateway displays the courses available under the Certificate 3 Guarantee and also provides information about what they cover, the careers they can lead to, and the training providers approved to deliver them. From Sydney Morning Herald – There’s a better way of teaching bored Australian students
We need to be smarter about how we teach, the ATAR is becoming less and less relevant (and it’s a good thing).
Rather like travel to a distant planet, education is a long journey towards an unknown destination. What we can be sure of, though, is that the job market our children will enter is likely to look very different to the one that was waiting for us... As human beings become more and more dispensable in the discharging of routine, low-skill jobs, new-age school-leavers will need to be brighter, more flexible and more versatile thinkers than ever before. "We have to get everyone to figure out what their potential is, how it maps to their passion and go for it – because there'll be nothing to do if you're under-educated in Australia," warns Professor John Fischetti, [from] the University of Newcastle in NSW. "Those jobs down the mine, at the mill or in transportation, they're dwindling. The adaptability that comes with having an astute, brilliant mind now has to be for everybody..."
In 2016, his university became one of the first in Australia – there are currently 10, with four more under negotiation – to offer admission to year 12 Big Picture students on the strength of a graduate portfolio.
It was developed by White and her team in 2015 as an alternative to the Higher School Certificate (HSC or equivalent) and its dreaded companion, the intellectual sorting house that is the ATAR.
“Confidence in the ATAR isn't strong anymore,” says White. “Only 37 per cent of year 12 students are using it to get to university. There's a new narrative now that accepts we have to imagine learning done differently for our young people and that means taking a fresh look at how we assess their learning.” Read the full article at: https://www.smh.com.au/national/there-is-a-better-way-of-teaching-bored-australian-students-20181030-p50csj.html

6. Workshops & Courses

Blackbird Ventures – WorkEx

WorkEx is Blackbird’s program to match Year 10 students with startups for work experience week. We believe this presents a unique opportunity to get some bright and enthusiastic kids at a pivotal point in their lives and we want to inspire them to pursue careers in STEM. Currently, most students don’t have access to inspiring work experience opportunities. They go to their parents’ workplace, the local mechanic, a fish & chip shop. Yet for most Australian teenagers, the future will look very different to the past. We believe we have the special privilege and responsibility of being able to show these kids the amazing careers they could have in tech. One week at a startup could be all it takes to inspire a kid and provide a pathway to their future career. Don’t need to be convinced? Head to this form to register your interest and we’ll be in touch.

University of the Sunshine Coast – Year 10 – 11 Study Skills Workshop

January 22 | Sippy Downs. This half day workshop targets students entering Year 10 and 11 in 2019 to prepare for their last years of high school. The focus is to equip students with the tools and strategies they require to revise and reinforce a range of study skills, assisting students to study more effectively and to consolidate their understanding in preparation for examinations.

USQ Maths Enrichment Program – Dates for 2019

This program is structured and designed to improve mathematical problem solving skills in gifted high-school students in Year 9 and 10. USQ Toowoomba | starts 21 Feb 2019
The program is aimed to suit the mathematical ability of Year 9 and 10 students who display aptitude for mathematics beyond what is offered in the standard high school curriculum. No cost to attend. For further info email faculty.marketing@usq.edu.au.

USQ Aviation Camp – EOI for 2019
Two Day Experience was a major success in 2018 with 25 school students taking two days out of their school holidays to attend the aviation focused experience. Students immersed themselves in leadership, communication, team building workshops and had the opportunity to fly USQ's 737 simulator. Express your interest to receive an invitation for our 2019 holiday aviation experiences via Faculty.marketing@usq.edu.au.

7. Get Your Foot In The Door With An Impressive Resume

It doesn't matter if you're leaving Year 12 and hoping to get a job straight away or applying for summer jobs to earn a bit of cash – if you want to work (and trust me, you do) then you're going to need a resume.

Potential employers use your resume to decide if you're worthy of an interview.

Even if you have all the credentials required and would be perfect for the job, if your resume doesn’t ‘wow’ the person reading the applications, then you’ll be at the bottom of their pile (also known as 'the bin').

READ THE ARTICLE HERE

8. Choose Your Own Adventure

Last week we looked at why you might need to follow a career pathway that isn’t necessarily straightforward. To recap, here are some of the reasons why you might need this option:
- You didn’t get the results you needed
- You missed a prerequisite subject (or failed it)
- You need to move a long way to follow your dream and you’re not ready for that yet
- You've had enough of study for now and want a break before uni

And whether you're concerned your ATAR / OP won’t get you into your preferred Uni Course, or you don’t even want to go to Uni, there are options out there to suit you.

Alternative Ways Into Uni
Universities want you to attend their institution (they're a business at the end of the day, and more students means more income). So if you’ve chosen a course you really like – or a uni you really want to go – check their website for alternative pathways that they offer. For example, Macquarie University offer 8 different entry pathways.

Here's a quick run-down of what they are and how they work:
- Next Step Pathway – successfully complete a series of units and guarantee entry into one of 18 degrees on offer.
- Macquarie University International College – Successfully complete one of 4 specially designed diplomas (also called foundation courses), and you’re eligible for entry into the second year of a degree – so you won’t even lose time.
- Internal Transfer – Enrol on a degree with a lower ATAR requirement than your preference that you may have missed out on. Within 6 months transfer to your preferred degree.
• Transfer from another University – complete a minimum of 12 months on another tertiary course and apply through UAC to your preferred Macquarie course.

• Special Tertiary Admissions Test – You'll have to successfully complete a series of competency and critical thinking tests.

• TAFE & Private College – Completed TAFE and College qualifications as a stepping stone to a Macquarie Uni degree, you can apply direct for some courses and through UAC for others.

• Open Universities (OUA) – Apply to do an online course with Macquarie, you can do this for the duration of your studies or you can apply via UAC to study on campus if you complete 4 units within four 13-week sessions.

• Indigenous Students – Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander students can apply for consideration based on merit and an on-campus assessment day.

Most unis offer opportunities like these, and you could be studying towards your preferred degree in no time at all. You'll have to decide about which pathway to take and do some hard work, but it'll be worth it in the end.

I Don't Want To Go To Uni – What Now?

Alternative Career pathways aren't just limited to University. You could apply for a job straight out of school, get work experience and work your way up the career ladder. It’s not an easy route by any means, but if it’s an option for the career of your choice, you'll start earning straight away and be pursuing the job you wanted.

If you want to join the Police or the Fire Service then tertiary education isn’t a requirement. You can apply directly through relevant state services. As long as you meet all the requirements and pass the admissions tests, you could be embarking on a career within months of leaving school.

Check out the service you’re interested in, entry requirements can differ between states. If you’re an Australian who’s completed Year 10 you may be eligible to join the Australian Defence Force (ADF). The training, qualifications and work experience you can access through the ADF is phenomenal. It’s definitely worth seeing if the career you want is an option through them. You'll have to commit for a period of time, but not forever if turns out to be something you don’t love. Meanwhile you’ll get plenty of support, opportunities and learn lots.

Vocational Education And Training (VET)

There are literally thousands of Diplomas and Certificate qualifications available for courses delivering work-place specific knowledge and skills across lots of careers and industries. You can study anything from trades, office work, management, retail, hospitality, to tourism, and technology.

You can even study in-class or online through TAFE or RTOs (Registered Training Organisations). Again, there are thousands of options for institutions as well as courses. Narrow down your options by deciding an area you want to study. Search for courses matching your requirements and then by location or on-line options. It’s always worth checking if you’re eligible for any grants or additional funding that can cover some or all of the costs.

Search for courses or institutions here as a great starting point.

TAFE

Technical and Further Education (TAFE) institutions are government owned providers of VET courses. They’re found throughout Australia and offer countless study options. If you’ve completed Year 10 at school you can study at TAFE. The qualifications (see VET section) are just as valid and transferrable as a university degree (and can be a pathway into uni if that’s your end goal), and potential employers view TAFE qualifications as favourably as degrees in many cases.

TAFE institutions offer courses on various subject areas, including:

- Agriculture
- Arts and Design
So you’ll be able to find a course that floats your boat. You can search through some of the courses here.

Apprenticeships, Traineeships and Cadetships

A great way to kick off a career. There are over 250,000 apprentices and trainees in training around Australia, across lots of different industries.

Open to everyone with very few barriers, employers create a job through the Apprenticeship scheme, so you’re employed directly by them (full or part-time permanent jobs) and start earning while you train.

Once you’ve completed your apprenticeship, you’ll have a nationally recognised qualification and work experience. With any luck you’ll also have the option of walking into a job with the company you’ve trained with.

Interested in an apprenticeship? Start here.

Cadetships are similar to apprenticeships, employers offer industry specific combined vocational training and work experience.

There are cadetships available within Australian Government Departments and lots of private companies from Jetstar through to the Guide Dogs Association and everything in between. Bear in mind that many cadetships have higher entry requirements and can be competitive.

There’s tonnes more information about different pathways on this Government site, if you’d like to read more click this link.

It’s Your Choice

Finding out more about all the alternative pathways into a career that you want can open lots of doors. You might find a pathway perfect for you that you hadn’t previously considered.

If you’re indecisive and still aren’t sure what you’d like to do, then finding out what the alternative options are available could help you decide which step to take. It could also inspire you to explore careers you’d never really considered before.

Your future is entirely in your hands.

9. Griffith University VET Entry 2019 and 2020

VET pathways for school leavers

At Griffith, we have a long tradition of recognising the skills and knowledge gained through Vocational Education and Training (VET) as a highly effective pathway to university.

Over many years, Griffith has seen VET pathway students achieve remarkable results and we will continue to accept stand-alone Vocation Education and Training (VET) qualifications completed at high school, private providers and TAFE Institutes for admission in 2019 and 2020.

We encourage you to share this information with your graduating cohort of Year 12 students, along with your Year 11 students who may be considering an alternative pathway to university.

Visit VET qualifications for further information.
10. National Higher Education Admissions Information

The Coursesseeker.edu.au, is the brand new national higher education admissions information platform, is now live! The platform has been developed by the Australian Government Department of Education and Training, in partnership with QTAC and other state Tertiary Admissions Centres (TACs) as a tool for assisting prospective students to make the seemingly impossible choice of where and what to study, and how to gain admission. The platform was a recommendation by the Higher Education Standards Panel in their Improving the Transparency of Higher Education Admissions report released in October 2016. Coursesseeker.edu.au, aims to improve admissions transparency across Australia, becoming a single point of contact for a prospective student to explore their options across the country in a simple, intuitive format.

Students, parents and careers advisers are able to make comprehensive side by side comparisons on all courses available in Australia, including information about entry requirements, admissions processes, institutions and more. For further information, please click here.

11. Year 12 Graduate Free Fee Training

To support Year 12 graduates into work, the Queensland Government offers free courses in high priority areas. Eligible Year 12 graduates must enrol and start training in a high priority qualification within the calendar year after leaving school to take advantage of this great opportunity.

We are asking schools to refer to the list of qualifications here on our website. This will be updated live reflect any changes TAFE Queensland are informed of by the Queensland Government.

12. ACU – Degrees with Many Options

- The Bachelor of Arts is a traditional humanities degree taught by award-winning lecturers and world-class researchers. Students can major in English, history, sociology, geography, literature, drama, music, visual arts and business.
- The unique Bachelor of Creative Arts degree focusses on the Creative Arts and includes drama, music, visual arts, creative writing and communication. This degree is unique as it enables students to experience a broad range of the creative arts and no audition or portfolio is required for admission. All these fields offer both theoretical and practical creative arts knowledge.
- The Global Studies dual degrees offer students an international perspective on the humanities, including sustainability, and global politics and economics. All students in this degree undertake a six-month international internship with one of our numerous international partners or a study abroad option.
- Our Bachelor of Teaching/Bachelor of Arts degree prepares students for secondary teaching in a range of subject choices related to our major offerings. All students in the School of Arts have the opportunity to study overseas, whether it's literature in New York, history in Rome, or art in Venice. Students leave these degrees work ready, with big picture understandings and tolerance for the ambiguities that characterize the twenty-first century. They are adaptable, ready to collaborate, and are self-starters. These are all highly valued and necessary skills in the workplace.

20. Transition to Tertiary

Put your Best Foot Forward
as you prepare for university

The UQ College Best Foot Forward (BFF) program aims to support your successful transition to university.

The Sessions focus on:
- The Challenges to overcome and strategies to succeed at university in your first year
- Who I am and what personal skills do I need to be successful
- How do I thrive in a different setting, with different pressures in a university environment

The BFF Program's Goal is to raise your awareness of what to expect at university, how to manage yourself in transition, ways to thrive during your university experience and provide you with ways to make their transition successful.

We encourage you to attend this informative program to ensure that you are fully prepared for the next exciting step on your journey in tertiary education.

Undertaking university study is a significant investment for you in time and money and investing in transitioning to university is often overlooked and ignores the different experience that universities create.

New university students to thrive in this new environment personally and educationally must manage the balance between a study model that is all about freedom and choice, and the academic work required to succeed and build a knowledge base and create career opportunities.

To enable this you need to have the awareness and skills to leverage what universities provide and understand how to avoid the pitfalls that the same environment can also provide.

You need the understanding how to create career opportunities, you need to have the awareness and skills to leverage what universities provide and how to avoid the pitfalls that the same environment can also provide.

Over 3 days you will learn about the university learning models, how it’s different, how to work with it to your advantage, your learning strengths and how to use them in degree study along with some of the assumptions and habits on how to be a successful student.

We will discuss your concerns and fears about university, what’s an ideal and achievable study/work/social balance, what services are available to you at university if things go “pear shaped”. Assist you how to access study networks, your physical and mental wellbeing and how to build resilience and positive mindset.
